

Frequently Asked Questions

Question

Will my overtime be included in child support calculations?

Answer

Generally, yes, because the overtime affects your total income. Overtime will usually be averaged into the total, by virtue of the fact that judges prefer to set support based upon a W-2 from the previous year or years (some judges use the last year's W-2 only, some judges will use the average of the last two or three years).

S.P.A.R.C.